EDITORS NOTE

There are many people who unfortunately do not seem to be able to understand that it is not because immigrants are foreigners, black, white or brown that we protest against them, but because they constitute a further menace to our peoples chances of obtaining employment and housing.

I cannot understand any Briton feeling a genuine concern and sympathy for people of foreign lands, who speak a different language to ours, whose characteristics we cannot understand, and whose problems we have not been to see for ourselves.

However I am assured that bleeding heart liberals can and therefore will not argue with their statements. But if they are are stirred sufficiently to help these people who mean little or nothing to them, how much more should the continued distress and poverty of their own fellow countrymen arouse them into a protest against these conditions in this country, and how much more enthusiastic should be their efforts for the building of a land more worthy of the fine people whose heritage it is.

Those idealist among you who want to put the world right, start with your own land and show to other countries a fine example in Britain reborn. Loving your own folk does not mean you hate others, it is time for some people to stop their self-loathing, strengthen their spines and take pride in their country.

PARTI NATIONAL SOCIAL CHRÉTIEN (CANADA)

Formed and led by Adrian Arcand, the Christian National Social Party was the largest fascist organization in Quebec, Canada, in the interbellum period. It eventually had 12,000 members throughout Canada.

Heavily influenced by the rise of anti-Semitic movements in Europe and especially by Adolf Hitler's National Socialist German Workers Party, Arcand was an enthusiastic promoter of an all-white, all-Christian vision of Canada. The PNSC looked beyond the borders of Quebec, seeking sympathizers among Anglo-Canadians under the umbrella of the National Unity Party of Canada (NUPC).

There was a tempered response to fascists in Canada that contrasts sharply with police and state commitments to putting down communist movements. First, the authorities and the fascists shared a dislike of the socialists and communists. Second (a large Canadian component of) German settlers enjoyed a largely favourable reputation in Canada, despite the xenophobia stirred up by the Great War, so even ethnic pro-Hitler groups like the Deutscher Bund Kanada (were) treated with kid gloves. Third, anti-Semitic sentiments were almost ubiquitous among Catholic and Protestant Canadians, so this did not set off alarm bells.

ADRIAN ARCAND

"SERVIAM" is latin for 'I Will Serve'. The uniform was a dark blue shirt with epaulets on which were the serviam badge each side and with a red flash running under the epaulets and a red swastika rondel stitched to each sleeve rather than using an armband. The pants were black and they generally did not wear a tie.

Other ranks wore the same colour shirt with no epaulette badges or coloured flashes but they did have the two swastika rondels on each sleeve.

Women wore a similar other ranks uniform with the swastika rondels and a black dress.

In the Spring of 1940, the RCMP captured and arrested Adrian Arcand and ten party members and took a truck full of party flags, documents and other artefacts. Arcand and the ten party members were tried and sentenced to imprisonment for the duration of the war. They were sent to Frederickton, New Brunswick for internment.

Remarkably, the Canadian fascists survived the Second World War. Adrian Arcand ran in elections in 1949 and 1953, finishing second both times with 29% and 39% of the vote respectively. As late as 1965, he could still draw a crowd of 850 to a rally in Montreal's Paul Sauvé Arena. This is likely because globalization and multiculturalism were not to start happening for several more years under the Liberal government of Trudeau, Sr

Mosley first on TV

In the long running ban of Oswald Mosley from all forms of mass communication, it is an interesting fact that he was, in all probability, the first politician to be seen on television. It was on 28th July 1930, when in the Labour Party, that he took part in an experiment at John Logie Baird's workshop and studio in Covent Garden, London. Standing in front of Baird's camera, he answered questions from an audience gathered at the nearby Coliseum Theatre in St Martins Lane, the sound and vision coming through television sets with a screen of two feet by five feet (60 cm by 150 cm), placed on the stage of the theatre. Once again, Mosley, always ahead of his time, had recognised the worth of this new invention, and used it to put over his policies.

It was another 38 years before he was seen again on television. Arising out of a libel action against the BBC, and after Lord Justice Parker's High Court observation that "Someone who has the ear of the whole nation can say things, and the unfortunate subject has no means of answering back in the same medium", the BBC was forced to lift the ban with the screening of a Panorama programme devoted to his life, for which the "ratings" were more than nine million.

Mobilisation of the Blackshirts

New British Fascism is the voice of the nation, the logical development of a national consciousness. It is neither an abstract theory conceived in the mind of a philosopher, nor the dream of an idealist, but a living reality which has sprung from the hearts of the people.

Fascism is the expression of patriotism materialised in duty, and the task which lies before us is that of national construction. State sovereignty forms the foundation stone, but a nation should not be content with mere existence. It should be evolutionary, not static, aspiring always towards civilisation and culture.

The nation cannot be defined purely in terms of geography, history or ethnology, but rather in terms of Duty, Loyalty and Sacrifice. Our forefathers having built this country have left us this watchword, "Carry on".

Apathy is fatal; the destiny of our country rests with all loyal citizens throughout the realm. Our thoughts and actions must be governed by the ideas of patriotism.

Fascism is not reaction. It aims at the creation of a national will in order to ensure peace within the nation. It demands neither tyranny nor aggression but the mobilisation of individual responsibilities in the common interest of all.

If you are a patriot then you are Fascist, a person who wants the best for their country, and a person who wants the best for their country wants the best for their kith and kin.

Time to put aside any differences you may have, imagined or real, and join in one united effort, one movement under one leader, the mobilisation of the Blackshirts throughout Britain has begun, discipline, dedication and direction leads us on.

March with us

NBU want those who search for adventure, we want power for the people; the weak will follow the strong.

The people demand a government entrusted with a task and which has the power to act. The government must be able to introduce fresh capital at low interest rates for the modernisation of industry and increased production. The jobs of British workers must be protected from foreign low wage nations.

The old parties have muddled generations into the crisis of war and lay waste the power and glory of our land. Their hands are stained with blood and innumerable disasters; our flag is slipping down into dust and dishonour.

The fatuous Marxist liberal nonsense must be dynamited out of the minds of the old politicians. NBU policy aims at building the home market with purchasing power high enough to absorb the production of the modern machine.

Must every worker in Britain have to wait for higher wages and employment until socialism comes to every Hottentot in Africa?

NBU are fighting so that a great land may live. We shall give to the people a new movement, an alternative faith capable of winning mass support. Existing politicians, institutions and organisations cannot cope with the coming crisis. The existing order is bound to collapse. The present political system is corrupt and oppressive.

Revolutionary changes are necessary to correct the failure of existing men, ideas and institutions. NBU will build a much-needed new movement of Renaissance, a movement of people not politicians.

This will take courage in the first part, discipline, dedication and direction in the second. This is something that only the Blackshirt leadership has to offer, comradeship, purpose, valour, loyalty and hope are what the movement has to offer to all those that don the black shirt and march with us.

Creed of a Fascist Revolutionary

By Arthur K. Chesterton,
MC (BUF)

Director of Publicity and Propaganda and Chief Organizer for the Midlands, 1933-1938)

Originally published by the BUF in 1935

A 31 page booklet exploration of the thought constellations of a far right thinker railing against political betrayal, the corruptions of democracy, and the lack of moral fiber of capitalists.

A quote may be in order: "It is argued against us that in our arbitrary way we shall rob mankind of the services, here and there, of a great man. That is not our intention. Mankind is a large institution and if any man has great services to offer for its advancement he shall be tested by his willingness to apply his gifts to the task of enriching the life of that part of mankind which shares with him his nationhood."<sup>1</sup>

On the fascist life he goes on to say: "Those who serve Fascism as revolutionaries must lay aside creature-comforts and security. That is the least of the demands made upon them. Night after night shall they go forth to speak, or to protect those who speak from the argument of broken bottles. Week after week shall they surrender themselves to routine long after the novelty has worn off. And much more shall they do before the hard-fought day is won."<sup>2</sup>

Chesterton left the BUF in 1938 because he found it not anti-Semitic enough. He enlisted in the army and went to Africa but was invalided out in 1943. He was a member of the Nordic League and the Right Club, and founded the League of Empire Loyalists in 1954.

This booklet is not an easy read, but it encompasses how dedicated fascists thought about England, multiculturalism, immigration, politicians of the day and the general state of the nation and the need to move to a corporatist state.

Have your say

Message: Hello there. I recently met up with one of your chaps called Chris after a get together in London last month. I have requested an invite to the next coffee morning, but my family and I are moving to Cornwall at the end of this month to start a new life away from the degeneracy and pollution (moral and chemical) of the city. I am committed to making a difference by leading an exemplary life, but would also like to contribute towards the struggle which I now see as unavoidable if our people and nation are to survive into the next decade, let alone century. I am a member of a Strasserist type group already (SMBPI), but I have yet to suss whether they have any real teeth, so to speak. I agree that we need to unite to bring an end to this decrepit and rat infested political system that currently enslaves our nation in the name of international finance and debt slavery with all the horrors that go with it. I am currently fully engaged with making a new home for my family and all the petty struggles which that entails, but I would relish any chance to help out given the time and opportunity. To that end I would very much appreciate to be kept up to date with any ongoing actions, and to meet up with like minded fellows in the region where I shall now be living.

Yours sincerely,
Sean.

Message: UPDATE TO PREVIOUS MESSAGE:

Having read through your website material I can now see that I should have joined your party instead of the SMBPI which in comparison looks like a LARP at best, and maybe even an attempt at blindsiding honest patriots. Strasserism has appealed to me, but I have always been impressed with Mosley and his work. I was unaware until recently that the NBU existed, and on reflection I can see that this really is where my heart and soul reside, in a home-grown movement centred around common values and discipline. I look forward to receiving a positive response in the near future so that I can begin to contribute towards this most just cause. Thank you in advance.

Sean.

NBU Media Officer

It has been a reasonably quiet month in terms of the running of NBU Media, however we have gained over 24 subscribers this month and we have now achieved over 3100 views. A video I enjoyed making was the first episode of the NBU Veterans Podcast, which has received positive feedback. I am currently working on a video about our recent York meeting, which will be released over the next few weeks. Thanks for all the feedback on this channel, and I hope I can take it further in the remainder of 2019. Please subscribe if you haven't already:

LYRICS TO ONWARD BLACKSHIRTS

Hark! The sound of many voices, echoes through the vale of ages.
Britain listens and rejoices, gazing on Tradition's pages.
Patriots : your cry is heeded!
Heroes : death was not in vain!
We to your place have succeeded,
Britain shall be great again!

Onward, Blackshirts! Form your legions,
keep the flag forever high.
For the Fascist Greater Britain
stand we fast to fight or die!

Crush the tyranny of traitors:
Vested power and Marxian lie!
Moscow-rented agitators, strife and chaos we defy:
ends the conflict of the classes,
barriers and divisions fall;
we've a message to the masses for the common good of all.

Onward, Blackshirts! Form your legions,
keep the flag forever high.
For the Fascist Greater Britain
stand we fast to fight or die!

We will build a "Greater Britain".
Hail the standard, lift it high!
What though we ourselves be smitten,
this, our Faith can never die!
This, no alien might can sunder - Courage! Unity! And Strength!
Shout, till Europe hears with wonder,
"Britain shall be ours at length!"

Onward, Blackshirts! Form your legions,
keep the flag forever high.
For the Fascist Greater Britain
stand we fast to fight or die !

Will you help?

NBU is not backed by big business bankers or trade unions. NBU is the only political group with free membership. Unlike other groups we deliver every order from our store and keep prices as low as possible. NBU does not employ anyone, no officer receives any payment or expenses. All money donated goes into building the movement, every single penny.

Please consider donating to the cause, on line or by Standing Order, help us meet our monthly office costs and enable us to produce so much more propaganda material so our activists can carry on spreading the word of British Fascism, thank you.

National Youth Parliament

Hello , my name is Harry Parsons , i am the NBU parliament youth officer. I started a couple of months ago at the NBU and I loved it from the beginning . I am mostly British with Dutch , Jewish , Romanian and Prussian heritage . My Romanian side were part of the iron guard and my great great uncle was a Blackshirt. I guess fascism runs in the family .I moved to north Cyprus in 2014 then came back in late 2017 . So I have experience with Islam. I have many plans for the future for the NBU like setting up different divisions, but let's not talk about that . Most people say my academics are too high for my age . I design flags for the NBU and posters .I would like to give a thanks to Gary, he's helped me since I joined , a nice man , who always responses to what you say to him or ask him. # WE HOLD WITHIN US A TRUST

In the history of revolutionary movements we know the long, slow periods of preparation lead to moments of fierce decision.

None can say that the story of British Union has ever been uneventful, because now as in the past we have experienced and have sought a struggle such as no other movement of this country has endured. Yet the immediate past in relation to the imminent future has been but preparation.

We now approach the hour of decision. In this year should be decided whether the desperate efforts of the dark enemy to secure a world war will succeed or whether that crime will be finally shattered on the rock of our resolution.

They want the war of nations, because without that war they lose. We want the peace of nations, because in that peace we win.

They seek to blind the people in a deluge of blood, we seek to lead the people with clear yet visionary eyes to a world that we will build anew, and such is the issue of this struggle.

Shall corruption escape the avenging flame in the destruction of western civilisation? Every fibre of our strength burns in the fire of the Blackshirt spirit that answers "No" Once again we give ourselves to Britain, we stand for peace. Once again our standards will be victorious.

Let those who shrink aside at such an hour find a reply, if they can, to the question of their children. Let them meet the eyes of Britain's heroes gazing upon them with cold contempt from a story of manhood and of daring unsurpassed in the stormy annals of mankind.

In this struggle will be developed the young strength that in the gathering storm will sweep their old and corrupt power from the pages of a glorious history that it has disgraced.

Desperate, therefore, will be their efforts in world disaster to escape their final doom. But mightier, in the final decision, will be the splendid inspiration of British Union to lead and to save our people, because we hold within us a trust that may not be denied.

In your trust comrades, are the past, the present and the future of Britain, in your trust is the peace and happiness of the suffering peoples of the Earth.

NBU The natural party of youth

The nations youth is that part of it which is still making desperate attempt to find security of occupation and is preoccupied with the struggle to make good, not just financially, but philosophically. The age in which we live will go down in history as the age which had the folly to permit the greatest number of willing young workers to rot away in unwilling idleness.

I fail to see any real and dangerous signs of the often mentioned demoralisation of youth. But I do see clearly and unmistakably ghastly signs and evidence of youth's starvation. Youth is rarely put on a pedestal except at such times as it is being murdered and mangled and maimed. When a nation really is up against it, when in other words, a country is fighting for its life, our elders see in the destruction of youth their own possible salvation.

Those that think and say the vilest things about modern youth are the very people who, when their own skins are in danger, pay lip service to youths heroism and self sacrifice. There are plenty of people who are willing to give youth a chance of proving its worthiness to die, who would not lift a finger to provide youth with an opportunity of proving its worthiness to live.

What are the sins of which today's youth are supposed to be guilty of? Frivolity, lack of ambition and discipline, sportmania, irresponsibility lack of 'guts' and an obsession with celebrity. Those that make these accusations deserve to be told that they are hypocrites looking round for excuses for their own past seductions and incompetencies.

And where is the evidence that youth is unambitious? Or that it is irresponsible? The complete answer to such a charge is to be found in the fact that, notwithstanding the terrible period of austerity that we are going through, this nation of ours has kept its head and heart in the right places. If youth had been only half as bad as it has been made out to be it would be impossible to strike a optimistic note or utter a word of hope for the future.

The grand army of today's youth is as good as the youth of yesterday or the day before. But unfortunately it isn't as lucky, except in the sense that though its difficulties and problems are almost unthinkably perplexing, its courage and fortitude are big enough and strong enough to carry it to victory.

Fascism is a revolution of the young against the out-dated thinking of the old, New British Union is the natural home for our young people for we are both the future of Britain.

Render unto Caesar the things that are Caesars

A crisis is at hand in the religious life of Britain and other European countries, which will probably result in a religious revolution of far greater importance than the upheaval of the sixteenth century.

To the interested observer it must be evident that the majority of people are becoming indifferent to the leadership of the Christian churches, or in many cases actively hostile to them, and yet it would not be true to say that they are drifting towards irreligious positions. The greatest disaster that could happen to this country would be a permanent antagonism between the State and the Christian religion, and it is the fear of that eventualality that is keeping hundreds of devout people from sharing in the political ideas of British Fascism.

They are suspicious of any movement that emphasises the sovereignty of the State because they have seen conflicts in other countries between the political and religious authorities and have not been able to discover the real causes of those struggles.

In a Fascist State should such a conflict arise it would be the Church's fault or rather the fault of the Ecclesiastical Authorities.

Fascism is in fact based upon one of the direct commands of Jesus Christ; render unto Caesar the things that are Caesars. This admonition clearly indicates that Christ allowed and acknowledged the earthly authority of those to whom he permits the government of his peoples in this world. He became as the Bible says, 'obedient unto the law for man'. After all, Christianity should teach good and loyal service to the earthly State as the best means of training the soul for good and loyal service to the spiritual kingdom of the King of Kings.

When a prejudiced clergy condemn Fascism in any form they are damning one of the most powerful forces, which could support the fundamental principles of true religion. Fascism is not out to render to Caesar the things that are Gods. It minds its own business, which is the good government of the earthly State, for the corporate welfare of the community.

FIGHTING EIGHTY YEARS OF LIES - THE NEW BRITISH UNION

The Spiritual leaders should do the same in their own great sphere. The Church must mind her own business, which is a spiritual or un-earthly work for the welfare of souls. Church and State wars are nearly always unnecessary, a fact which makes them doubly tragic. There is nothing at all to prevent the most ardent Fascist who puts 'Britain First' politically from applying the same principle to his religion and putting 'God First' ethically.

One would think that the devoutly religious person would see the futility of multiculturalism. The nations of the world do not keep step in the march of civilisations progress; such a state of harmony is not likely to obtain in this world except through the influence of religion.

But that does not hinder each nation from ordering its own political affairs in its own way, and patriotism does not oppose or exclude Christian internationalism. The Fascist is the true internationalist, because he seeks above all to make his own nation an efficient, prosperous, and contented unit in the nations of the world.

Britain, prosperous and well governed is far more likely to be beneficial to her neighbours, and far less likely to be anyone's enemy.

Moreover, Fascism teaches the necessity and importance of sacrifice in the interests of ones country. And the principle of sacrifice is the great foundation stone of the Christian religion.
