FIGHTING EIGHTY YEARS OF LIES - THE NEW BRITISH UNION

EDITORS NOTE

"Courage is the acid test of political worth. To wear the Black shirt will test your courage, I hope you have this courage. If you should join us I can promise you this, when you have put on the black shirt you will become a knight of Fascism, of a political and spiritual order. You will be reborn anew. The Black shirt is the emblem of a new faith that has risen again in our land.

To all those who have heard our message I say; If you are men and women worthy of the new age and the new civilisation that is opening out before you; If you have an ounce of political courage within you; If you are revolutionaries ready to wield the Fascist axe to destroy all the rot within the present system; If you are patriots with a passionate love for your country and desire to see it the brightest and fairest land under heaven, then come and join us.

If you believe in the true greatness of Britain, if you believe that the Corporate State will bring economic salvation, then you will be received with joy in the New British Union of Fascists.

But the Black shirt is the test"

FOR BRITAIN

Peter Hollings

Before I get to the comments about the meeting let me make a point about what many of us would recognise as the secretive organisation(s) (the Deep State) that wield an enormously powerful global influence over many of the governments of the world including our own here in the UK. It is relevant to the main narrative below.

Not everyone agrees of course that our politicians are but mere puppets, subservient to a Hidden Hand 'elite', but, whether you believe it or not - it exists and it is very real.

I now need to make a brief distinction between Zionism and International Zionism.

Zionism: An international movement originally for the establishment of a Jewish national or religious community in Palestine and later for the support of modern Israel.

International Zionism: Or in other words the Internationalists, Globalists, Bankers, New World Order proponents including the neo-Cons.

I have no issue with the former and I take no sides in the conflict between the Israelis and the Palestinians. With regards to the latter, the International Zionists, I have big, big problems.

Not content with simply wanting a homeland for Jewish people in the Middle East, these Internationalists desire world domination and will stop at nothing to realise their ambition. This cartel of crooks and gangsters inhabit all those influential institutions of society that inform, educate, entertain, finance and legislate our daily lives.

They understand that to achieve a desirable outcome they must first destroy the nation state and nowhere is that project so vital to them than here in Western Europe.

Now back to yesterday's meeting. Anne Marie Waters, the party leader was the main attraction of the evening. Sat with her on the top table was the local candidate for the Temple Newsam ward (where back in the good old days the BNP would poll 22-23%) a mixed race chap by the name of Billy Baldwin.

Billy's a very personable and friendly sort of fella with enough charisma and personality to ensure he'll get a pretty impressive share of the vote I should think (if he can knock on enough doors between now and May 2nd). I had a chat with him before the main proceedings commenced and I made a point about wanting to put a question or two to AMW with regards to her views on racial-nationalism. I even suggested he sound her out about my intention before I confronted her. He assured me that there would be no need, that she was pretty much on board with that idea (my interpretation of his actual reply) and that he too believed in racial-nationalism (all the cynics out there, including myself, are raising their eyebrows at this point in the proceedings). I have one or two concerns that he has had previous employment with various government departments to be honest.

One thing that struck me immediately about the audience, which I would estimate to be around the 70 mark, give or take, was the high proportion of females in attendance. Around 40% were women and it's no coincidence given that the party leader and special guest was also a woman who is basically a feminist activist.

It's a sign of the times and a measure of how ineffective the nationalist movement has become when avowed racial-nationalists think it worth going to check out a political meeting at which centre-stage sit a 'former' leftist Labour supporting, gay rights activist and a dark-skinned mixed race man.

There was no shortage of representation from the so-called 'far right' in the crowd last night either I can tell you.

AMW has strong views on Islam as everyone knows by know. It's the reason she fell foul of UKIP when she was a member. She's also very keen on Human Rights issues and animal welfare (opposing both halal and kosher forms of slaughter) - good for her, aren't we all? But now we really start to confront the 'meat and two veg' of what people need to realise about Anne Marie Waters and it concerns the reasons for my initial points regarding the Hidden Hand and International Zionism.

Either AMW is extremely politically naive or she is yet another high profile shill for the afore-mentioned Hidden Hand. A small group of right-wing 'hardliners' who neither myself or Tony M had seen before made comments that alluded to exactly what I was pointing out previously about who really controls the government. They carefully avoided calling a spade a spade as it were, but AMW knew exactly what they were alluding to.

Her reply? I can't quote exactly what she said (the event was filmed so it may pop up on social media very soon if it hasn't done already) but, she was at great pains to insist that there was no such thing as 'puppet-masters' and that everything that was wrong with the way Parliament operates is purely down to incompetence on the part of our elected representatives. She is wrong - very wrong! Right or wrong, I'll concede that she very definitely won over the vast majority of the audience last night.

Do you see now why I have such a hard time supporting civic nationalist parties? Just like AMW they are in denial that multi-billionaire globalist financiers (International Zionists), many in faraway lands, are the true controlling 'elite' and their interests and priorities are not the same as ours. They are responsible for the catastrophic and anti-white genocidal project known as mass immigration. They are responsible for dismantling our manufacturing industries and the shipping of thousands of valuable job opportunities to foreign lands. They are responsible for the promotion of degeneracy and perversions the like that would put 1920s Berlin to shame. They manipulate the money markets for selfish gain whilst throwing millions of our people onto the unemployment scrapheap and they enrich themselves to obscene and immoral levels of wealth whilst poverty flourishes, people have their homes re-possessed, old people die of hypothermia in their unheated homes and the homeless go without even the barest necessities to sustain life.

They finance and facilitate the building of mosques all over the West, they lobby for legislation that shuts down free speech and the right to make justifiable criticisms. They collude with enemy states and supply arms to terrorist organisations, AND, the list just goes on and on.

Suffice to say that after hearing her refuse to accept that an alternative higher 'government' exists I thought that my previous idea to ask where she stood on the issue of racial-nationalism had become somewhat redundant.

I acknowledge that many racial-nationalists now ply their trade rubbing shoulders with civic-nationalists in organisations like For Britain, and UKIP of course (though strictly speaking there is a ban on ex-members of orgs like the BNP, NF and EDL joining UKIP) and understand perfectly their reasons for doing so. The old ways and the old parties have failed in their attempts to persuade the majority of the general public to see things their way. It hasn't always been the fault of the calibre of individual within the racial-nationalist movement that has caused a lack of success. We were always going to be up against it, starved of the oxygen of publicity as we have been due to mainstream media ownership by the very suspects I have highlighted above.

Some of our people now think it is worth involving themselves with civic-nationalist parties because they see no other option available to them. Indeed Entryism is now seen as a necessary way forward by none other than our very own Max Musson over at Western Spring (in tandem with other initiatives I might add); I tend to agree.

If we can join up with, and work alongside, fellow patriots in other parties that we wouldn't normally give the time of day to, then that has to be preferable I think to remaining on the political sidelines; at least we can attempt to effect change from within, so far it seems to be working with Momentum inside the Labour party - better than doing nothing or just sounding off on social media all day long, don't you think?

Whether you agree or disagree with my observations and criticisms, let's not fall out over them, after all we are fighting the same battles and want the same endgame ultimately.

Let's not blindly follow anyone who promises us the Earth and let us continue to cast a cynical eye over proceedings for we are very surely losing our battles presently - LET US NOT LOSE THE WAR.

Special Branch and the British Fascisti

In Britain, early fascism gained momentum in the mid-1920s but, unlike the Italian version, as a counter-revolutionary rather than a revolutionary force. The British Fascisti (BF), the first fascist party in Britain, was ultra-conservative. It did not advocate change of government by revolution, was not overtly anti-Semitic and was intensely patriotic.

Although the Special Branch monitored the movement as a paramilitary organisation that might threaten public order, it did not consider it subversive. Certainly MI5 did not regard it as such; indeed, according to Andrew, 'until 1933, MI5 "paid practically no attention" to Nazism — nor did Whitehall expect that it should'.

BF's founder, Rotha Lintorn-Orman, was brought up with those values that fashioned the imperialist and anti-socialist attitudes of sections of the English middle class. She was a feminist with a strong sense of patriotic duty. She was opposed to trade unionism, and socialism, which she considered was endangering the British way of life. Although she admired Mussolini, she appeared to be unaware of the violence used by the Fascists in Italy against communists and socialists opposed to their regime.

Special Branch regarded the friction between BF and left-wing activists as a possible threat to public order, and in 1923 reported to the Cabinet:

On 7 October about 500 people attended the inaugural meeting of the London Branch of the British Fascisti.

Miss Bennett, a former suffragette, opened the meeting but she and two subsequent speakers were interrupted to such an extent by extremists that the meeting became pandemonium and ended with the singing (by the opposing factions) of the National Anthem and 'The Red Flag'.

By the end of 1924, with hundreds of new recruits enrolling each week, the British Fascisti opened an office at 71 Elm Park Gardens, London, SW10. In 1926 they were reliably reported to boast a membership of 185,000. Once the movement was up and running, Lintorn-Orman surrendered the leadership to Brigadier R. B. D. Blakeney, who became President of the Grand Council. Lintorn-Orman assumed the role of president of the women's units. The Grand Council included some very senior former military officers and the BF could hardly be described as a subversive force. Other active members included Arnold Leese and Henry Simpson, the first fascists to be elected, in 1924, to a local council, and William Joyce, executed for treason at the end of the Second World War.

Maxwell Knight, who later became a valued member of the Security Service, joined the movement in 1924 at the request of the Service, for whom he claimed to have served as an agent until 1930. Although (or maybe because) Blakeney was determined to build the organisation into an effective and disciplined body, membership began to decline and by 1930 was virtually moribund. Members continued to leave and by 1934 the movement, now called the British Fascists Ltd., was also in serious financial trouble.

Special Branch continued to maintain a watching brief on its activities and in July reported that its leader, Henry Christopher Bruce Wilson, had met Oswald Mosley at the Grosvenor Hotel to discuss a possible merger of the BF with the British Union of Fascists (BUF), but Lintom-Orman, still a force in the organisation, albeit a spent one, vetoed the moves.

As with many extreme right-wing organisations, break-away groups formed, and by the time of Lintorn-

Orrnan's death in 1935, the BF had been consigned to history, amidst rumours that its founder was addicted to drugs and alcohol, which caused her death, and that she had formed a lesbian relationship, leading to a breach between herself and her mother.

WE REMEMBER

Alan Welfare, a Former Union Movement member and lifelong Mosley supporter, died of a stroke at Weston-Super-Mare on February 28th.

Jeff Wallder writes

Alan joined the Movement as a teenager in the 1960s and was an active member. He was always good company, great sense of humour and a gentleman. He did his best to prevent the decline of the country he loved and remained loyal to Mosley and to Europe until the very end. To him, we extend the full arm salute.

Terry Wilson writes

Alan was a dear friend and former neighbour who helped rejuvenate the League of St George. He had a great sense of humour and was loyal to Mosley, UM, the LSG and the vision of Europe a Nation. At demos when the reds shouted at him "Nazi", he would calmly reply: "I am not a Nazi, I am a Fascist." A true and loyal comrade.
Our thoughts go out to Debbie, Tristan and Mikela.

Dear NBU good luck with your efforts and your venture. I was wondering if you could pass along my details to some of your east Midlands representatives. I can't take UKIP or brexit or the BNP or any of these fools seriously. the amount of infighting in the BNP due to Sadie Graham was ABSOLUTELY UNBELIEVABLE. i think i met more unstable nutters in the bnp than any other group LOL !!!!!!!!!!!!!!!

I am excellent at gardening and producing food so maybe we could exchange knowledge and skills etc. I believe now is the time for FASCISM in Britain and Europe as i love the swastika and all but i REALLY don't want to call myself a national-socialist.

I believe in FASCISM and the power of a renewed Britain ! A movement like yours is probably the last chance Britain has to save itself

Good luck !

I'm fairly new to 'politics'. My views seem to fit with fascist and right wing agenda. I'm looking for an active group that shares my ways of thinking, to seek education, unity and action. My biggest interests are animal welfare, anti Islamisation, immigration control and patriotism.

Thanks for taking the time to read this,

Bobby.

FIGHTING EIGHTY YEARS OF LIES - THE NEW BRITISH UNION

EURO-ETHNOCIDE

The submergence of Western European peoples by the Babylon of races that the socialists, Reds, Liberal Party, Labour Party and the Conservative Party, have allowed to flood into our countries ultimately means that true European people will become minorities in their own countries in the not too distant future.

The only parties that want to stop this are the New British Union (U.K.), the AfD (Germany), Freedom Party (Netherlands), Front National (France), The Golden Dawn (Greece), Swiss People's Party (Switzerland), The League (Italy), Danish People's Party (Denmark), Sweden Democrats (Sweden), Freedom Party (Austria), Our Slovakia (Slovakia), United Patriots (Bulgaria), The Finns (Finland), Jobbik (Hungaria), ELAM (Cyprus), Freedom and Direct Democracy (Czech Republic).

As New British Union fascists, we are not alone in this fight! The migrant crisis taps into fears about globalization, multi-culturalism, lost of national identity and ancient cultural sensibilities. The European Union has intensified this problem by allowing millions of so-called refugees into Europe and then allowing them to move freely within Europe. The EU plans to soon force European countries to accept migrants under a quota system. This must be stopped and the right-wing is the only group that can do this. Leaving the EU is a must for the U.K. regardless of Ireland staying in the EU.

Fortunately, the rise of the right-wing, by becoming stronger, is changing things. In Germany, in 2015 Angela Merkel allowed a million muslims into Germany. These came from Afganistan, Iraq, and Syria. This resulted in the Alternative für Deutschland Party entering the Bundestag and becoming the official opposition party. After a miserable election, the worst in 70 years, Merkel now says that the immigrant crisis would not be repeated. She also promised that border security would be beefed up and deportations of undocumented immigrants stepped up. A powerful right-wing can change things!

Immigration rules in Denmark are among Europe's toughest. The right-wing Danish People's Party, who are the second largest party in the Danish parliament are getting their way. Denmark allows its police to seize migrants' property to pay for their upkeep and has pledged to boost contraception aid to developing countries to limit the migration pressure. These are excellent ideas, but limiting the procreation of those migrants who are already in our countries also needs to be thought about. The birth rate for immigrants is nearly double that of Europeans and their population is growing very fast, while ours is not.

The death of European culture, national character and heritage is on the horizon in Europe, Canada and the U.S.A. All fascists must work against this in any legal way possible.

David Clarke

BOOK REVIEW:

Canada in Decay
By Ricardo Duchesne
Published: 2018 by Black House
Publishing Ltd.
376 pages with index

"Canada in Decay" is a masterful work.

The first study to question the undemocratic policy of mass immigration and racial diversification which the Left-Liberal thugs, the politicians, the mainstream media, schools, universities, banks and corporations all promote.

The writer crushes the myth that immigration "enriches the country" and shows that it is leading to Euro-Canadians becoming a small minority in their own country and eventually, because of the flood of immigrants and the disparity in the birth rate of immigrants, the Euro-Canadian population will approach near extinction in the not too distant future.

He also destroys the myth that Canada is a nation of immigrants when in fact Canada was settled by Europeans with almost zero influence of non-Europeans.

He points out that the traditional Leninist language of class struggle is no longer relevant and that cultural Marxism is transforming the West through infiltration and subversion of western values and cultures through mass migration.

Duchesne points out that there is a double standard at work in, not only Canada, but in all western countries including the U.K. This double standard encourages immigrants to assert their cultures but denies Euro-Canadians that privilege. Any time a white person asserts his cultural identity he is labelled a racist.

FIGHTING EIGHTY YEARS OF LIES - THE NEW BRITISH UNION

With verifiable statistics he shows that unfettered immigration places a huge burden on the white taxpayer for government and health services absorbed by those immigrants and further that they do not pay half the taxes that whites do. In 2014 for instance, the fiscal burden of immigrants was $35 billion.¹

In Canada, the blame for this cultural bias falls squarely on the shoulders of Pierre E. Trudeau the Prime Minister at various times in the 1960's, 1970's and 1980's and continues today under his son. After the Second World War, no-one called PM Mackenzie King a racist when he said in Parliament that "Canada should remain a white man's country." King, earlier in his career, had pointed out that to allow mass immigration of the races of the Orient would bring whites face to face with the loss of their national character.

This book, in very clear words, exposes the path of destruction of the West which the Left-liberals have been, and are, championing.

David Clarke

We are living in strange times

All the old conceptions have been falsified, every reproach formerly made against Fascism has proved true only of Democracy. Today it is Fascism that makes for peace, and democracy for war. It is fascism that inculcates love, and democracy hate. It is fascism that insists on truth, and democracy that is allied with falsehood. Everything that has been claimed as attributes of democracy has been ruthlessly abandoned. Every cause that good democrats were once pledged to defend has been betrayed. It is the Fascist who today upholds the rights of oppressed minorities, and the democrat who would deluge the world with blood to uphold oppression. It is the fascist who preaches tolerance and goodwill, and the socialist who seeths with hatred and malice. It is the Fascist who would abolish class distinctions and the socialist who contents himself with class warfare. It is the Fascist who strives for world peace, and the socialist who would prefer the end of civilisation to any understanding with Fascists. Hate, open and unashamed, is the keynote of socialist propaganda. To fan that hatred, every incident at home and abroad is seized upon, distorted and magnified to provoke anti-fascist resentment. Nothing is too obscure, nothing too trivial if it can be used to increase anti fascist feeling.

¹Canada in Decay. Page 114.

FIGHTING EIGHTY YEARS OF LIES - THE NEW BRITISH UNION

Democracy shows all the signs of senile decay, it can no longer be trusted to make the simplest deductions. It still clings pathetically to all the old catchwords and refuses to realise that they have long been emptied of any meaning. 'Freedom of the press' 'public opinion' even a fool knows that the media is a privately owned monopoly, and that public opinion rarely finds an echo in democratic news.

FASCIST REVOLUTION

British Fascism is a revolutionary movement, and Fascists must live in the spirit of revolution. We seek to achieve that revolution through the future vote of the people for good reasons. We are the better revolutionaries because we employ legal methods of persuasion and conviction. This is the difference between revolutions that succeed and those that fail. No revolution can endure that does not rest on the will of the people, to create a new civilisation they must stabilise revolution. That can not be done without the consent and co-operation of the people, and without it revolution means nothing and our labours would be in vain. No one who understands Fascism would strive to impose Government upon the people against their will. Their Government must rest on the willing consent of the people or it will fail. Those who represent Fascism as the violent seizure of power by a minority against the will of the people entirely misunderstand and misrepresent its true character. Those are methods of the past which only survive in small countries which have temporarily succumbed to a military coup d'état. The character of British Fascism differs completely from such methods of the past. New British Union is a movement of revolution of authority and discipline. But the discipline is voluntary willingly accepted by a free people for the great purpose of national regeneration. It is the choice of people who have learnt the obvious lesson that to pull together gives greater strength than to pull apart. The leadership principle of Fascism is the acceptance of the equally plain fact that direction must come from some authority if any complex operations or corporate purpose is to succeed. Fascism, in fact, is the creed of a nation that has discarded the illusion of childhood that freedom rests in everyone talking at once and each individual pursuing what appears to be their personal interest regardless of the common welfare. In national affairs as in the daily business of adult individuals we will substitute the obligations of manhood for the anarchy of the nursery. Fascism is a revolution of the mind and spirit and must be bought to the people as a whole, we have to use not only every instrument of propaganda, but the faith within us to convert the mass of the people. Fascism is the leadership of a dedicated minority who by the force of their will and conviction will convert a whole people to a new world idea. In our ranks we illustrate this voluntary discipline, the self abnegation and the acceptance of leadership. By the force of these principles we have built a nation wide movement. This is the creed of revolutionaries dedicated to a faith and bound together by Fascist Brotherhood.

NEW MEDIA OFFICER

My name is Rene Fraser and I am 16 years old. I made an appearance by Skype in the recent meeting of the a Fascist Council. I was born in the Czech Republic but lived in England since I was 3 years old. My mother is Czech, and my father is English and are both white. I joined the NBU on the 29th March 2019. That was the day I lost faith of the current world order and the traditional system. I was a UKIP supporter before joining the NBU but changed once I realised that they were the same as the lying moderates. I am the Media Officer, which means I manage the NBU Media YouTube channel and help build a social media

I would like to give thanks to Gary and everyone else for giving me this opportunity. I would also like to remind our readers and supporters that, no matter how hard the current order tries to dethrone us fascists, that FACTS are always on our side and this is the most powerful weapon we can utilise.
